The background of the entire image is a warm, slightly blurred photograph of a dining table. In the upper right, a wine glass is partially filled with a golden liquid, with bokeh lights reflecting on its surface. In the lower foreground, a plate of food is visible, featuring vibrant orange and yellow roasted vegetables, possibly mushrooms or peppers, garnished with fresh green herbs and a dusting of white salt. The overall atmosphere is cozy and elegant.

Not only pleasure, but also the company....

Without the right company it is just a meal, and especially during Advent and Christmas season, we place a particularly high value on with whom we spend our meals.
